The world bank just called me to say that they their lawyers and outside counsel they retained were trying to block media outlets from running a scandal story about Jim leaving the bank. He decided to work at an infrastructure fund and was sick if the bank and trump but apparently some media places looking for a different story. The scandal goes that me (gates foundation) has undue influence and that he and i had a romantic affair. The bank released their investigations by the board and staff association that found nothing.

And of course never was anything but was all around his renomination. But as you know everyone would rather believe a scandal.

So their lawyers are trying but I dont know if it will be successful. So my name and the Gates fndn names will be out there.

I feel like this is an era for women to speak up and that these types of assaults aren't ok. If this does run do you think I can and should fight back? Like write an oped or sue for libel or malice? Zero factual anything. Hoping that bc there is zero fact they can't say anything. The one fact is that there was an investigation. But if they report that they have to report that they found nothing. Ugh

What do you think?

Just forwarded you a note from the financial times - i sent it to the Gates lawyers and the bank lawyers

Also sent email to BillG that this was all going on and that I had been working through foundation lawyers and old team

Stevie says ignore.
Delete and move on. Just like you.

Just curious can anyone sue the world bank

01:27:13 am

MW They seem to have international privilege

01:27:28 am

[REDACTED]

Yes of course

[REDACTED]

Supposedly the Washington Post and FT backing away but yahoo news being aggressive and they say very salacious. Hoping they can stop that one.

10:50:47 pm

I do think he is having an affair w someone in the office though

10:51:18 pm

MW Her husband filed for divorce a few weeks ago and she's going w Jim to new gig

10:51:59 pm

Jealous?

10:52:10 pm

No but I think theybthink that's me

10:52:23 pm

She's very nice!

10:53:34 pm

Good

10:53:49 pm

But I'd rather they chase her than me

Lawyers say quiet is good and that other stories around the nomination process hopefully will take over soon.

FT may still write a piece but will not use names other than Jim's. The remaining Yahoo reporter is continuing to press but the Gates lawyers and Bank legal teams supposedly continuing to make progress.
