eff, as self centric one can become I am convinced nobody understand my situation as it is one that cannot be seen if one has not been there where I am - but perhaps you do. One also get paranoid because all people are out to get me.

I do not mind you joining Terje to advise him as he desires. I just do not want to communicate with all the various people "harassing" me right now. I have lawyers to fend off many these on a professional basis but I need to talk to Terje as I personally want to do good for him as a person. The lack of "formality" in or relations is a problem for me and it ties my hands for now. I just cannot do what I would want to do in different times and "pushing" the issue creates problems I cannot solve or handle. There are no agreement that he or I can refer to or base his request on in order to achieve his goal but then we need to make one - and I need to be able to deliver on it. By pushing me I am in trouble and cannot help. Why push me I think when my intention have been good and are good. Why make me another problem I cannot manage is my question. Join the ranks of people out there to put me to rest is what I do not want to see. I fight these off one by one to make sure I deliver on my intentions and I need "space" to deliver and specially on something where there are good wishes and intention only and others have a legal base to say no! Then I need to make these go away first. Thus I am sure you are aware of such a situation. A long answer. Morits
