Visitor Message from [REDACTED]

(Re: A thank you note from [REDACTED])

[REDACTED]

I was saddened to read about your health challenges especially after having gone through so much in your life already. You were specifically on my mind and heart during my meditation today and I felt compelled to reach out to see if I can help more.

We do not know each other but having been a survivor of multiple major near death health issues myself plus having a wife that was completely abandoned by her family over a cult at a young age then sexually abused, trafficked & forcibly raped by 3 different men for 20 years strait starting as a child at 13 I was specifically moved by your own story of abuse and recent life / health challenges. I will never be able to imagine what you and my wife have suffered but watching my wife in therapy for many years and cry herself to sleep on and off for 8 years I can only imagine.

What you have both suffered is a deep passion of ours hence why I am also on the board of a foundation called Families Against Cult Teachings. We target Cult's and Trafficking around them by shining light on the abusers, the issues surrounding them, the failures in government policy and even going after them directly. Most of all we try our best to support the victims by any means we can. If you ever need any support from F.A.C.T. please let me know or feel free to reach out to the foundation directly.

What I can relate to though is your health challenges. I've been very blessed in my life in many ways but have also suffered tremendously in my life. I have spent a lot of years in and out of hospitals personally plus having worked closely with many doctors, hospitals, pharmaceutical companies and charities trying to provide support and care to people in need it has provided me with a lot of connections and insights in the medical field including a few of the worlds most respected brain surgeons.

I hope you have great medical care already but if you need or want a second or third opinion I'm happy to connect you with some of my relationships in the medical field. I've done it for many, many people over the years. I've been the recipient of friends and strangers alike supporting and guiding me through my personal health and life challenges. The greatest way I can thank them is to pay it forward.

Also, if you ever want to just talk to someone that has navigated the ER and hematology departments for more than a decade I'm happy to share some of my personal insights that may help you.

The first one is attached below. It's a picture my father gave me as a child and I have always kept it with me. It served me and now my wife far more than he would have ever expected OR maybe not... Maybe he was just wiser than I gave him credit for at the time.

I would also like to leave you with one more of my favorite quotes.

God, grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change, the courage to change the things I can, and the wisdom to know the difference.

In closing I would like to leave you with one last piece of advice. Please feel no obligation to except my help and don't even feel obligated to respond. I know from experience that you have a tremendous amount on your plate right now. I hope there are a lot of people reaching out in support and trying to help you. You have to follow your gut first and foremost as to the direction you take with that advice.

Second, you should never add stress to your plate by feeling obligated to respond to everyone or even thank them honestly. At least not right now while you are at war. If they are really just sending you well wishes and support they will never be upset if you save your energy for the fight ahead.

In the meantime, we will be sending you nothing but love and support.

All the best,
