New Canaan Man Says 117-Year-Old Tomb on Ponus Ridge Obstructs Sightline

By Michael Dinan

 This granite monolith, dedicated Oct. 10, 1897 by the New Canaan Historical Society, marks the traditional tomb of Ponus, sachem of the Rippowams. A New Canaan motorist says

Long may, on Ponus Path, this sentry standing, The sun, the stars, the hunter's moon, salute; A silent figure, rugged and commanding, Bearing its message when our tongues are mute. Yet though we raise the stone and guard it duly, Stern time, some day shall bid the finger fall,
The only monument that serves us [...]

P&Z Approves Weed Street Subdivision, Mixed-Use Building on Cross Street

By Michael Dinan

Town planning officials on Tuesday approved a pair of closely followed land use applications—one for a 2-lot subdivision on Weed Street that includes a conservation easement connecting two New Canaan Land Trust properties, and another for a mixed residential-and-commercial structure on Cross Street that's designed to accommodate future New Canaan Post Office needs.

What follows [...]
